WE may take it for granted that we have not yet heard the last of the Li-Pournier memorandum, which indeed bids fair to become famous in history. Is Li Hung Chang relling a lie, or the truth, when be asserts that Capt. Fournier, with his own hand, erased the paragraph intimating that the French forces would occupy Langson within 29 days. It must either be the one or the other, because the document was handed personally at a public interview where Ma Kien-chung was present, es interpreter. and execut others, and i Fournier made the crasures at all he must have made them there and then, and there could be no pessible misunderdending about it . We have as yet no palliabed official statement by IA Hing-chang himself, Per Chi Feel, 12 4 80 pint, on Monday, but the laung-li launen expressly toaks the assertion in their last circular to the Foreign Ministers of 14th August, and it is impossible to suppose they would have done so on any less withouty than that of Li Hung-chang, so that we do not think we are posting the case at all too strongly when we say that either Li Hung-chang or Capt. Four-nier most be guilty of a deliberate falsehood. The position is a painful one and we should be very gind to see a way out of it involving a less crishing conclusion. But the Chiness hart deliberately thrown them the grantlet LE BRISBANE, SYDNEY, and they have boldly declared that Fourieer did make the ersonres, and they have published a fac-simile of the original document through the medium of the N.-C.-D. Need. They have appealed to public opinion producing the proofs of their fest, and they cannot complain if that opinion goes against them. The last mail from England brought out a statement of the Chinese case, and the indicated the selient points and here semi-official French denial of the erasu- leave it to the judgment of our readers. The said full of the contract of the

A telegram to The Times from Tientain. states that the 'agreement' referred to by M. Ferry in the French Chamber of May 20, as having been made between Captain Fournier and Li Hung-chang, specifying dates for the withdrawal of the Chinese troops from Torig-King, was a misnomer. The memorandum containing the whole of the details respecting the withdrawal the Uninese troops was rejected in tote by In Hung-chang, and the clauses of the memorandum were thereupon cancelled. Captain Fournier with his own hand attested the rejection of those paragraphs. by attaching his initials. Li Hung-chang took his stand on the text of the Convention, promising to arrange for the evacuation to take place within a reasonable time. To this the following semi-official denial has been given :- Commander Fournier and Li Hung-thang agreed verbally upon the time necessary to effect the immediate withdrawal of the Chinese troops, provided for by Article 2 of the Treaty of Tientain. In order to place this understanding on record Commander, Fournier handed to Li Hung-chaug a note specifying the dates on which the French troops should replace the Times. Chinese garrisons, and copies of this note were, with the Viceroy's formal assent. despatched to M. Jules Forry and General Millot. It is untrue, therefore, that Commander Fournier approved by his initials the erasures seen by the Tientsin correspondent of the journal in question, who has evidently been imposed upon.

In endeavouring to form some estimate of the truth we may begin by assuming that the denial of the one counterbalances the assertion of the other. We will not be understood to imply that the word of any Chinaman however exalted, is as good as that of a French officer, but our French friends will not take offence if we make the Chinese a present of so much to begin with. We then fall back upon the probabilities of the case and the motives that each had for acting us they me alleged to have done. The fac-simile of the document in question does not help us much. Any one could have made the lend pencil marks that run across it, and it will readily be granted that Mn Kien Chung, or any other of the Tientsin linguists, is clever enough to do a neat imitation of the initials 'E.F.' which he could have copied out of any chit-book had he been so disposed. That also may be left out of the question. An expert like the late M. Chabot might make something out of it but no one in China can pretend to give an opinion from an inspection of the handwriting alone. What then are the probabilities of the case? On the Chinese side there is the unlikelihood of a man in Li bung-change position steoping to such an act, or even listening to the suggestion if made to him by Mo Kien Chung, or other unscrupulous agent: But on the other hand there is the manifest in tive, if the fraud should be successful, of throwing the whole blame for the Langson affair on the French and surving the tables upor them in the eyes of Europe. For, if the We hear that the Chinese workmen emgiven way un the question of the dates of evacuation, then Chinese would be throughout, and there was n possibility French man-of-war. of their (the Powers) interfering to tive can be assigned for duplicity. Treaty had been signed. China had The transport Tarn, on board of which agreed to withdraw her troops, 'imme- thousand troops has been waiting orders to distement, and Fournier had nothing sail for some time, would be despatched more to gain in any way. His motive in drawing up the memorandum at al was the laudable one of preventing any further misunderstanding. "You have -arreed, he practically said, to withdraw your troops immediately; my Government will understand by that 20 days for those garrisons in the near side and 40 days for those in the Yunnan side, after which our troops will proceed to occupy that time. No signature, no consent on aurely been no diminution of banking busimation for their guidance. So there I share for the New Oriental Bank. was no reason at all why he should have altered the dates, much less why he THE Police authorities at the Central Stashould have struck out the clauses altogether, thus leaving a mutilated and unintelligible paper. But ngain let it be granted that, for some reason we do approach of the typhoon because Dr. not know of, Fournier did erose these Doberck had given instructions that paragraphs, is it possible to believe that messages were not to be published without he should have gone and telegraphed to his orders, and in the instances in question his Government, as we know he did the there were no such orders. There is eviry sense, because M. Ferry on the 21st May, i.e., 3 days after, publicly announc. | we trust it will be sufficiently cleared up to ed in the Chamber that by arrangement | ensure information regarding the approach with Li Hung-chang Langson was to be of typhoons being placed before the comevacuated on the 6th June. The inevitable conclusion to which this leads is infinitely strengthened by what follows. Although the declaration M. Ferry was published all over the world, no protest or objection was raised by the Chinese. The Langson affair occurred on the 23rd June and was known commence business on his own account in Peking on the 27th. M. Semalie, the French Charge d'Affa Fu, representad to the Yamen that by accord with Li Hung-chang Langson was to be ove- Mr and Mrs Powell have just made a visit Issue Watts, a boy belonging to H.M.S. custed on the Oth June and complained to England for the purpose of selecting Sapphire, who, accompanied by and of breach of faith. A PARAGRAPH in the Japan Gazette reads. 'Sir John Pope Hennessy is, it appears, about to make a second visit to Japan. He is expected about the 13th September and the Government propose to place the Rokumai-kwan at his disposal as a residence during his stay." If we remember rightly, a statement was made in the Mauritius papers a short time age to the effect that Sir John Pope Hennessy had abandoned his idea of revisiting Japan, and would make a trip to a neighbouring island instead. Our impression is that Sir John Pope Hennessy never had any intention of coming again to this part of the world, and that the announcement of his visit here was merely made to encourage the efforts to raise a brazen image of St. Stephen's Church (all services in Chi bimself in this Colony, or for some other equally laudable purpose. THE American ship C. F. Sargent, Captair Atherton, which arrived here from Cardiff yesterday evening, seems to have met the typhoon which raged here on Wednesday night. On the 7th instant, when within 130 miles of this port, she encountered strong N.N.E. winds, which continued up till the 10th instant, when the wind increased to a heavy gale, and veered towards N.N.W. and W.N.W. From this point it blew with hurricane force, and veered round to W.S.W. and S.W. until 4 a.m. on the 11th, when it moderated. During the storm, large quantities of water were shipped, filling the cabin, smashing the skylight, and damaging everything. The main topgallant and royal yards were also carried away. While crossing the Indian Ocean, a heavy sea boarded the C. F. Sargent, and washed away the port side of the forward House.

The fore topsail yard was also carried away. On August 21st, Captain Atherton spoke the American barque J. V. W. D., bound from New York to Shanghai. The ships parted company on August 23rd.

A yellow-haired urchin, with innocent blue eyes, seated himself by the side of a lady at the edge of the circle of the skating rink. A moment or two later there was a chink of falling coin, and a dime rolled up to the lady's feet. The urchin failing to see or claim the coin, the lady picked it up and put it in her fine fellow of about twenty years old steppocketbook, which she replaced in her pocket. Two minutes later the urchin suddenly disappeared, and the lady almost almost simultaneously discovered that her pocketbook was missing. It contained considerable sum of money and a valuable French gold pecket piece. The police say that the dropping of the dime is a new trick employed by thieves to discover the location of the victim's pocketbook.

While absurd fear reigns in some places, shocking indifference and flippancy towards the cholera is the order of the day in many others. In a booth in one of the suburbs they are playing a melodrama called Cholera Morbie, a grand spectacle-in five acts and twenty-one tableaux. The plot is the story of a couple of lovers to whom the villain of the piece communicates the cholera microbo, and who, after much agonising, writhing on the stage, are relieved and finally cured by a young doctor (whom I suspect to be the author of the piece), by means of a delicious cordial of his own invention, which is to be obtained at his address for the ridiculously low price of 2f. the flacon. By a lucky coincidence he happens to have a few phials in his pockets every evening, which he disposes of to such of the spectators as desire them after the curtain has fallen on the last tableau."

One day this wook the police arrested a young architect, living at No. 7, Rue des Houx, at Montmartre, for pretending to have the cholera. This gay young fellow is, it seems, steeped in debt, and is constantly dunned by his creditors; being unable to avoid one of them the other day he darkened his room, jumped into bed and curled up like a hedgehog. The creditor found him writhing and attering inarticulate sounds; he was, however, able to 'They did not toll you downstairs that I could not see you? 'Yes they did, but as they always tell me the same thing In short, I have brought my little bill. Here the impostor began to writhe and groan horribly. 'What's the matter with you? asked the creditor. I've got the cholera." 'What! the cholera! and they never told me! He sprang downstairs and made such a scene that the | Monthly Rent, $330. crowd gathered, and the police came, and in a very short time there was a report all through the quarter that the cholera had broken out in Montmartre. A doctor was sent for, and to him the ingenious architect had to confess his hoax. consequences will be serious for him his landlord has already turned him out, and the police commissary of the quarter has begun proceedings against him.

Shortly after the National Fête the police arrested a whole gang of practical jokers who had turned the cholera scare to account for their own amusement. Their leader is one Joseph Bourdon, a shopman, living at No. 2, Quai des Grands-Augustins. A. week before the fete, Joseph got together ten of his brethren or comrades, most of them employed in the same establishment as himself, and proposed to them his plan, which was to go about during the fete with a supply of phenic acid, camphor and smuff in their pockets. Whenever they met with a man or woman whose accent showed them to be from the south they were to pour ephenic acid down his or her back and stuff camphor or smull into his or her nose, under the fallacious protext of disinfecting them. The plan was carried out with great success for a comple of days; they found victims who contented themselves with merely yelling, but who submitted, though with a bad grace, to the disinfecting process, the seriousness with which it was performed making them believe that they really had to deal with public samtary officials. Their last exploit was on a stout old lady of about tifty from Marseilles. Bourdon and three of his chums tackled her in the Place du Palais-Royal; one of them poured phonic acid down her back, another stuffed camphor into her nose, and a third sprinkled her hair with smull. But the old lady was not to be imposed, upon. Price, 81. After recovering from her surprise and sneezing, she collared Joseph Bourdon and held him till the police arrived to take him in charge. Joseph at once 'peached' on his accomplices who have all been arrested and are now awaiting trial. It will go hard with them; for besides having to answer for the assault, they will be charged with which the French law is not indulgent .-Pioneer.

A good story comes from an Anglo-Indian station. A sub-lieutenant took sick leave. and spent his leisure in the steps preliminary to getting married. The colonel heard of the indiscretion, and peremptorily telegraphed: 'Join at once.' With the fatal order in his hand, the youth proceeded to say farewell to his betrothed. But the lady was more intelligent in military matters. am glad that the colonel approves the match, she said; but why is he in such a hurry? The sub-licutement was still too literal for the fair one, who had further to explain that the 'join at once' meant 'marry immediate-The result was that in 48 hours the colonel received the following reply per telegraph :- Your orders are obeyed. were joined at once.

He asked what "that was, and his visitor said, 'Oh, that's | separately. my wife,' and explained that she, being a cripple, had to be carried. She was also carried to the registrar's office, and married to the groom. She was thence conveyed on board on Allan steamer, lying in the Mersey, and the couple are now on their way to Boston.

A' CRICKET match uniter rather remarkable conditions took place recently near Strabane. Eleven ladies of the county COMPARATIVE CHINESE FAMILY LAW. challenged eleven gentlemen to a trial of skill with the leather and willow; only in this case it was the ladies alone who wielded the willow, while the gentlemen had to at Shanghai and Hongkong, at LANE, be content with broomsticks. Under the CRAWFORD & Co., Hougkong, and at the circumstances it was not surprising that the China Mail 4) flice. -ladies won the match; for a broomstick, though a useful implement in its place, is not eminently calculated to stop a swift ball with a break on it. On the other hand, if a ball is well away to leg, you can help on its wild career very satisfactorily by means of a good 'swipe' from a stout broomstick and the fact that one of the male players made ninety-three with his primitive weapon seems to show that the ladies were, if anything, weak in bowling. This was only to be expected; for, owing to the neglect of really sound education in girlhood, ladies are very seldom able to acquire that family 1 30 liarity with the projection of light objects at favourable marks which forms one of the chief delights of ingenuous byshood, and in these days of overhand delivery liebs in no small degree to train bowlers, Yet, according to all cricket tradition, it was a young lady who first invented round-arm bowling, and made the feats of a Spofforth or . Peate possible.
